Property Description

13 hectares of island property, located in the Golfo Dulce of Costa Rica's southern Pacific region. The property has its own well as its water source. All electricity is provided by solar. Lots of beach, complete with palm & almendra trees (food of the scarlet macaws). Monkeys, and other jungle wildlife, along with a myriad of bird species, including the scarlet macaw frequent the area. There are 2, 1 bedroom homes on the property, along with a caretaker's house. There is a wood-fired pizza oven and two platforms for enjoying the waves, pizza, and just being there. There is a magic feeling here that you have found something truly remarkable. To state the obvious, the island is boat access only. You launch in Golfito and take a 15 - 20 minute ride out to the property - or take an hour (or more) and marvel at where you are, and/or do some fishing along the way. There is the nearby regional airport that makes access to this remote property quite easy.
