Property Description

This 275 acre mountaintop land parcel is located high in the Talamanca Mountains at the top of the upscale Escaleras community of Dominical. This is the last large land parcel available in Escaleras. Everything else of this size has been purchased and used as residential home development or subdivided and sold off as smaller lots. Property in Escaleras is highly sought after, so much so that a private mountaintop residential community neighboring this property is almost sold out. If you are a land investor or a home developer, this large parcel is well worth a look. The land features public road frontage, electricity running to the property line, good internal road infrastructure, and freshwater rivers and streams flowing throughout. For developers, there are many building sites available to develop residential homes of all shapes and sizes with mountain views, valley views, rainforest views or a view of the majestic Diamante Waterfall – one of the tallest waterfalls in Costa Rica.
