Property Description

The property is located in the mountains above San Isidro de El General in the area known as Santa Elena. It consists of over 2.5 hectares with public road frontage. A large percentage of the property is fairly flat, cleared and usable for building. It could work as either an eco-lodge of sorts, or even subdivided and sold into residential lots. The back part of the property is bordered by a beautiful river or "quebrada" that features cascades and pools in the midst of large boulders. There is one boulder that is even large enough for some type of structure to be built on top of it, perhaps a lookout with dynamic views of the valley and surrounding mountains. The water feature of this property is indeed unique as the photos demonstrate. As you walk down to the river you cross through a dense jungle area, teeming with flora and fauna. The combination of flat, cleared usable land, with jungle and river makes this property very fluid and dynamic for a number of uses.
