Property Description

This amazing farm is located in the small, quiet town of Sierpe about 30 km from the Pacific Ocean along the Sierpe River and only 15 km South of Palmar Sur and just a few miles from the Pan-American Highway. The property is completely flat making it perfect for cattle or growing rice and oil palms. Sierpe is the main gateway for those wishing to go to Corcovado National Park or Cano Island. Sierpe is a small village located 280 km South of San Jose City in the province of Puntarenas. The best way to get to Sierpe is to take a domestic flight from the Juan Santamaria International Airport to Palmar Sur from there you can take a water taxi that will take you to the property. The town of Sierpe is nestled in the glorious Diquis Valley and it is a key river port usually used by tourists wishing to explore the glorious Osa Peninsula. Here you will find commercial services, luxury hotels and hostels, restaurants and bars.
